Next week again Lancaster Farming will reach you a day late, because of no mail service on New Year's Day. We also wish a happy New Year to all.

Lancaster Farming

Vol. III. No. 7. Quarryville (Lancaster County) Pa., Friday, Dec. 27, 1957 $2 Per Year

Do You Know That . . .

Lancaster County produces more alfalfa hay than any other county in the state. In 1956, 91,010 acres produced 169,580 tons worth $4,799,600.

Tobacco Crop Nearly All Sold Buyers Claim

Buyers claim that by now all that remains of 1957 tobacco are a few odd crops of low quality leaf scattered throughout the county. Buying proceeded rapidly and the prices offered deviated little from the 20 cents for straight run or 26 and 12 cents for sorted crops.

A couple of trends were set this year, one buyer said. One is that sizing probably never will be again required for the crop. The other is that firms desiring sorted and sized crops wll probably contact with the grower before the crop and is ever out of the field offering him a premum price for the extra work involved

The top price reported for a crop this year was 28 cents paid for a crop of irrgated sized leaf.

The quantity of tobacco available this year continues to be a matter for speculaton. The federal state crop reporting board said earlier that the crop will average 1,400 pounds an acre But many buyers and farmers alike, believe that this average is much too high

The reason for this is that in the northern part of the county some acreage planted was never harvested. Yields in that part of the county were very light. But in the New Danville-Conestoga area the crop this year is said to equal that of almose any normal year.

Irrigated crops add further to the confusion. Because producers here are relative novices in the use of supplemental water, there are irrigated crops that produced yields well below the county average But some of the crops receiving extra water made well over 2,000 pounds to the acre.

Buying this year followed the normal pattern established in the last few years. American and General were out first followed closely by the independent buyers and small purchasers. Bayuk, the third of the "Big Three," came out weakly a few days later.

Burning quality of the 1957 leaf has been a matter of major concern to buyers for companies not using a processed binder. In a year such as this ,too much water when irrigating or too little water due to the drouth can cause poor burning qualities.

Firms using the processed leaf can mix stocks and thus minimize the effect of a single poor buring crop.

It is estimated, however, that there will be some crops left unbought in the sheds. What disposition can be made of these, for the most part very low quality crops, remains yet to be seen.

Saying that the average production in the county was 1,200 pounds an acre and that there are 30,000 acres in the county, the value of the 1957 crop appears to be about $7.2 million. This is using an average price of 20 cents a pound, which, according to buyers, will be very close.

HOGS HIT THE HIGHEST prices this week since August This lot of hogs grading U. S. 1, at the Lancaster Stock Yards is similar to several other lots which sold from $21 to $21.50 a hundred pounds. These hogs were bought for Lester Hartman, Phoenixville, a small killer. They were produced on a local farm. (LF Photo)

TO GET YOUR FARMERS' TAX GUIDE — A supply of "Farmers' Tax Guide" is on hand at your Internal Revenue Office or at our Extension Service Office, P. O. Bldg., Lancaster. Farmers are required to file an estimate of your income and pay the tax due by Jan. 15, and pay balance due by April 15, or file complete return and pay tax on or before Feb. 15

TO PROTECT ANIMAL HEALTH — During the winter months it is quite common for confined animals to get colds, pneumonia, or shipping fever. Proper barn ventilation may prevent many of these ailments. This is especially true with small calves. Newly-purchased animals should be segregated for several weeks to protect the rest of the herd.

TO REINFORCE MANURE — Superphosphate is one of the most useful fertilizers during the winter months; it is recommended that dairymen use from 1½ to 2 pounds daily per cow in the gutter and on the barn floor; this will not only make the barn more dry and sanitary but will add phosphorus to the manure. Steer feeders may also add superphosphate to the pens at the same rate but apply just prior to bedding the cattle A ton of manure reinforced with superphosphate is about equal to the fertilizer elements in 100 pounds of 10 10-10 commercial fertilizer.

TO FEED SMALL POTATOES — Livestock producers may want to make use of small potatoes for feeding purposes; beef cattle and dairy cattle may be fed raw potatoes at the rate of 15 to 20 pounds per head per day; they may be fed in place of or in addition to silage. The amounts fed should be started slowly and increased gradually. To eliminate possible choking it is best to slice or chop before feeding. Sprouts should not be fed. Hogs may be fed cooked potatoes but not raw ones The water from the cooking should be discarded and not fed.

19 Lancaster County FFA Students Selected as 'Keystone Farmers'

Fifty-three farm boys, all members of the Future Farmers of America in Pennsylvania's southeastern counties, have been selected by the FFA for the coveted degree of "Keystone Farmer." Ceremonies are being arranged for Jan. 15 at the FFA State meeting during the 1958 State Farm Show.

The list of those chosen was certified to the State Farm Show Commission Monday by George D. Derr, consultant in agricultural education in the Department of Public Instruction and State FFA adviser.

Highest degree which can be earned at the State level by an FFA boy, the Keystone Farmer title is awarded to vocational students for outstanding achievement in agriculture and rural life To qualify, the FFA must have demonstrated marked ability in leadership, completed at least $500 in productive agricultural enterprises, and attained satisfactory achievement in improving his farm's efficiency or his farm home's comfort. Not more than one boy in every 50 FFA members can receive the honor, under national FFA rules. Those seleced from the southeastern counties are.

1958 Agronomy Guide Available

The 1958 Agronomy Guide is now available at the county agents office in most Pennsylvania counties. It is little changed from last year.

The only major change in variety recommendations is that Thorne has been dropped as recommended wheat and Duel has been added with no qualifications Pennoll and Senaca are the two other recommended wheats.

New Inspectors Added to Enforce Fresh Egg Law

In An effort to assure Pennsylvania consumers of obtaining quality eggs, the State Department of Agriculture Monday appointed five new inspectors to carry out a more intensified egg inspection program.

State Agriculture Secretary William L. Henning said the new inspectors will augment the present force of three men responsible for making periodic visits to retail, wholesale and route outlets where eggs are sold.

The new inspectors have been appointed as a result of a $150,000 appropriation made by the 1957 State Legislature which designated that the money be used for the enforcement of the Pennsylvania Fresh Egg Law.

In addition to the augmented inspectional staff, the Department announced that new regulations to go into effect Jan 16 make it compulsory for all eggs sold in cartons to be graded, carry the name and address of the packer, and list the weight of the eggs. Grading is now on a voluntary basis Under the new regulation, carton eggs not graded for size and quality after Jan. 16 must bear the words "not classified."

"It is our aim to assure Pennsylvania consumers of agricultural products that the highest quality is being offered for sale and that they meet specified standards," Henning declared. "We cannot do this without an effective regulatory program."

The State's 67 counties have been re-divided into nine inspection areas better to serve consumers of eggs and the industry, according to Henning. The program will be under the supercision of E. J. Lawless, Jr., chief of the poultry and egg division in the Bureau of Markets.

Violators of the new regulations are subject to a $25 minimum fine and to a maximum fine of $500 for a third offense. The violation also is punishable by a prison term if deemed necessary.

4-H Corn, Tobacco Club Roundups To Be Dec. 30

County 4-H corn and tobacco club members will hold their annual roundup Monday, Dec. 30 at the Bayuk Cigar Co. warehouse at 850 North Water St., Lancaster. Both roundups will begin at 1 p. m.

Record books on both projects should be completed and filed at the county extension office by Dec. 27.

In the tobacco competition, two hands of 15 leaves must be exhibited. One hand will be Wrapper B's, commonly known as binders, and the other Filler B's, not farm filler, but filler binders.

The leaves should be of uniform color, size and shape, and free of desease, insect or mechanical injury.

The exhibit score will be the average of the two hands.

Ten ear corn samples should be of the hybrid selected last spring.

It should be uniform in length, thickness of ear, size, shape and color of kernel corn.

Members are urged to note that yields are to be reported in pounds rather than in bushels when filling out the record books.

Tobacco club members so desiring may leave their exhibit to be shown in the 4-H classes at the Farm Show.

Production Races Population

World agriculture production probably will again be at record level in 1957-58, but, as has been the case since 1952-53, will barely keep abreast of population increase.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that world output of agricultural products is expected to equal the 1956-57 record outturn despite sharp drops in some major areas such as the Soviet Union, Canada and Australia. But per capita consumption has been increasing because of rising population, industrial activity, improved living standards, and increased productivity.

World trade in agricultural products reached record levels in 1956-57. As a result, carryover stocks of several important products in exporting countries, particularly cotton and wheat, were smaller at the beginning of the 1957-58 marketing year than a year earlier.

USDA's annual report, "The World Agricultural Situation", published Dec. 18, says world agricultural production in 1957-58 will, like 1956-57, probably be nine per cent larger than the three-year 1952-54 average and 28 per cent above the prewar 1935-39 base period.

On a per capita basis, however, 1957-58 production is expected to be no more than about two per cent above 1952-54 and 38 per cent above 1935-39. In Communist countries it is expected to be 12 per cent above 1952-54, but only seven per cent above prewar. The apparntly more rapid increase rate in the Communist countries since 1952-54 is because recovery from war devastation in Free World countries was largely completed by 1952, and production there has varied only one to two per cent. Communist recovery was less complete by 1952. Subsequent expansion thus makes the Communist increase rate higher, but production on a per capita basis still is relatively low compared with prewar.

Communist agricultural production as a whole has been relatively high in each of the last three years. Forecasts for 1957-58 indicate that some increase in Mainland China, accompanied by possible record postwar production in Eastern Europe, may nearly offset a substantial decline in the U S S R. On a per capita basis, Communist production for 1957-58 is placed at seven per cent above the 1952-54 base period. In 1956-57 it was nine per cent above 1952-54.

Outside the Communist area, increases in production since 1952-54 have been most pronounced in Western Asia, Latin America and Africa. But these are the areas of most rapid population growth, and production increase there has just slightly exceeded the population increase. In Western Europe, where population is increasing least rapidly, production per capita has remained unchanged at two per cent above 1952-54 for the last three years. Western Asia was the only country to show a significant increase in per capita production in 1957-58.

"The World Agricultural Situation" says that the long-term outlook is for continual gradual expansion of production for the world as a whole. Major agricultural development programs have been extending new ideas into several underdeveloped areas, and their influence is being reflected in increasd output The more industrialized countries also are adopting new agricultural techniques resulting in increased output per person and per unit of area.

A record volume of consumption and trade in agricultural products in 1956-57 reduced stocks significantly. Cotton stocks were reduced by 1.3 million bales—U.S. stocks by about 3.3 million—as stable and competitive prices on world markets stimulated consumption and the building of inventories in importing countries Wheat stocks in surplus-producing countries dropped slightly, with prospects of further reduction Sugar stocks also dropped.

On the other hand, feed grain stocks rose to new high levels, and coffee stocks have been increasing. The carryover of extra long staple Egyptian cotton rose in 1956-57.

World demand for agricultural products is likely to continue high in 1957-58, but world trade could be materially hampered by exchange shortages which are now emerging as a serious problem in many foreign countries.

50 YEARS AGO (1907)

"How to roast a pig", was the heading of an item appearing in a December, 1907, issue of the Kansas City Times. The article stated:

"Select a pig if posible that is not more than a month old and well filled out for its age. Put it in a big pan of cold water and wash thoroughly, taking care that the eye sockets, ears and throat arep erfectly clean. Rinse and wipe dry. Make a stuffing as for a turkey"

"Rub over the inside salt, pepper and a suspicion of sage. Press in the stuffing, which must, by all means, have a small onion chopped in it, and then draw the skin together with a long needle and coarst thread. Roll the legs in oiled paper. Bend the fore feet under the body and press the hined feet backward, skewering all in place. Put the pig in a dripping pan, rub the skin with olive oil or butter, sprinkle with salt and dredge with flour. Put a piece of hard wood between the teeth to keep the mouth open, and set the pan in a good hot oven. Baste frequently with a little olive oil and then with the drippings.

"After the pig begins to brown cover each ear with a piece of waxed paper. Allow half an hour to each pound in baking. When almost done, take off the wrappings from ears and feet to let them crisp. When done take out carefully and lay on a bed of cress or white celery leaves on a large platter. Take out the skewers, remove the wood from the mouth and insert a small red apple or ear of corn. Hang a necklace of strung cranberries or parsley about the neck and send to the table."

A writer in a farm journal had this to say in 1907:

"It beats all how tight some folks hang on to the almighty dollar and even smaller denominations here on earth when there is not a ghost of a chance that they can take a penny along with them when they die. Money only possesses real value as it is put to some good use here below. While we are told in sacred writ that the abode of the blessed is paved with gold and has jasper walls, there is no intimation that a medium of exchange will be needed to buy bread and meat or pay coal and ice bills."

POTATO YIELD LOW NATION-WISE

A potato expert reported that the aerage yield of potatoes in the United States in 1906 was only 95.3 bushels per acre. It was pointed out with some yields reaching between 300 and 400 bushels per acre, it was appalling to think what some of the yields must have been to bring the average down to so low a point.

25 Years Ago

During the Christmas season of 1932 a strong-plea for united effort to reform international policies in accordance with economic laws was voiced by Senator Borah. Given here in part his speech stated:

"Looking out upon the world this Christmas season, civilization seems an inexplicable riddle. In this vast machine which we have built up there seems to be something missing. Something indispensable to human happiness without which all our progress is a mockery, is lacking.

"The first thing which arrests our attention are these twelve million people, to say nothing of their dependents, who are out of work and hungry.

'Why are they hungry? Because they have no money with which to buy food. Why have they no money? Because they have no work.

'Why have they no work? Because organized society has no need for their work.

CHICAGO GRAIN ELEATOR DESTROYED

An explosion turned a six-story grain elevator in Chicago into a seething furnace two days before Christmas in 1932, killing one man.

Eight other workmen were burned, some of them rescued heroically from imminent death as 200,000 bushels of wheat, barley, corn and oats went up in flames and nearby concrete elevators containing more than a million bushels of grain were menaced.

The loss was estimated over $500,000. The elevator itself was a wooden structure built in 1906 by the Santa Fe Railway and contained expensive machinery.

LANCASTER AUTO AGENCY ROBBED

Two days before Christmas at Lancaster, in 1932, an electric drill and aceylene torch were used by yeggs in robbing the safe of the Buckwalter-Sweigart Automobile Agency of some $500 in cash during an early morning hour. The tools were stolen from the firm's adjoining garage. Blankets and robes taken from cars in the garage were used by the burglars to hide their operations.

There were no windows broken in the building. It was believed the intruders used a skeleton key to gain access to the office.

Sales of Lancaster farms reported during December, 1932, included the 83-acre property of Miss Elizabeth Bicknell, Fulton Township, to Samuel Wiley, of McSparran, for $1,825, sold at public auction by Auctioneer Lee Work, of Quarryville.

At Steelville, along the Octoraro Creek, the 141-acre farm belonging to the estate of the late Addie Fox was sold by the administrators at Public sale to Dr. Charles A. Clark, of Philadelphia, for $3,725.

PA. BAPTISTS DENONCED VIOLATION OF SUNDAY LAW

Pennsylvania Baptists in convention at Reading, 25 years ago this week, denounced what they called flagrant violation of the act of 1794 — better known as Sunday Blue Laws.

The delegates' sentiments on the Blue Laws were embodied in a resolution which they passed.

The resolution concluded with the expressed intention of call on the Legislature to safeguard the act of 1794 against changes and support of the Lord's Day Alliance of Pennsylvania in preserving the Lord's Day.

Rev Dr. M. Joseph Twomey, of Philadelphia, was re-elected head of the State organization.

Prominent speakers during the three-day session were Rev. Dr. William Axling, missionary-author of Japan, and the Rev. Dr. Frank A. Smith, New York City.

Brothers in Christ

Lesson for December 29, 1957

"BROTHERHOOD" is a word that gets kicked around a lot. There are all sorts of brotherhoods, and most of them are good. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is a sample of many groups held together by the same kind of work and skill We can talk of the brotherhood of Americans, or of artists, or of the same battalion in an army. We can speak of the brotherhood of suffering.

Dr. Foreman

"Brothers in Christ," however are closer to one another than even those who have the same father and mother. We could not go into this and show why it is. But let us follow Paul's lead and think how this works. The little note he wrote to Philemon brings together in Christian brotherhood two men who were about as far apart as two men could be; for one of them, Philemon, was a master and Onesimus, the other, was his slave.

Restored

Onesimus was worse than a slave. He had stolen from his master and ran away. Somehow or other, probably in jail, he had run across Paul, and became one of the many whom Paul led to Christ. Now Paul might have said to him: "Now, Onesimus, you are my Christian brother and Philemon's too. The past is all wiped clean, God has forgiven your sins. Stay here in Rome, take a fresh start, leave your old life behind. I'll never let on to Philemon that I ever met you" But Paul did not look at it that way. The first thing Onesimus had to do was the hardest. He had to go back to Philemon and give himself up. The letter to Philemon urges that gentleman to remember that Onesimus is now also his brother; but Paul may have had to do some tall persuading, to make Onesimus see that Philemon was his brother. Brotherhood, in short, as Christians at their best understand it, does not cancel out obligations. If I owe a Christian ten dollars, I can't gaily write it off because it's "all in the family" If I have slandered a fellow-Christian or wronged one in any way, the very fact that we are brothers, so far from excusing me, lays on me a special duty to make all the restitution I possibly can. Let us not go into the New Year, if we can help it, owing any man—"except to love one another."

Reconciled

This return of Onesimus, as Paul hoped, would be more than restoration of an absent slave and at least some of the missing money. It would be a reconciliation. (Paul s hopes probably were realized, otherwise one suspects this little letter would have been saved) Now reconciliation is very difficult, because it involves something in the heart. You can restore all the externals of the old relationship,—the runaway slave can come back, the estranged husband and wife can move into the same apartment, the countries lately fighting can send ambassadors to each other again, and so forth. But unless something happens in the hearts of these people, the restoration is going to be something formal at best, galling and intolerable at worst. There has to be forgiveness on at least one side in all human reconciliation; usually two sides. Who knows why Onesimus ran away? If Philemon had been the ideal master. Onesimus might have preferred to stay home. And if we can guess that Onesimus had something to forgive, we know that Philemon had. But brotherhood means love, if it means anything. Brotherhood in Christ means Christlike love.

Refreshed

Paul, as the reader of his letter will notice, asks Philemon to live out his brotherhood,—but not for his sake and that of Onesimus alone The restoration and reconciliation which Paul prays for, will "refresh the hearts" of a good many people. It is not true that my relations with you and yours with me affect us two alone. A family reconciliation may make a difference far beyond the household. This is a sad world, a weary world. And the weariness comes partly from listening to so much jangling and wrangling. As the bells ring out the Old Year, how wonderful, how refreshing to the heart, if they ring out old quarrels, old resentments! Christian brotherhood is a bell with far-heard overtones of peace

Better Roughage Given Credit for Milk Increase

HARRISBURG — More favorable wholesale milk prices during November encouraged Pennsylvania dairymen to give their cows higher quality feed to take advantage of the 15 cents increase per hundredweight from a month earlier, the State Department of Agriculture says

According to Federal-State reports, Pennsylvania farmers in November averaged $5 65 for 100 pounds of milk sold at wholesale This compares with $5 50 for October and $5 33 received in November 1956.

Milk production in Pennsylvania was 488,000,000 pounds for November A month earlier production was 512,000,000 pounds while 464,000 000 pounds of milk were produced in November 1956 It was the first time this year that production reached a level well above 1956

The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said some of the production increase was attributed to the feeding of higher quality roughage in most of the state Low quality roughage affected milk output last fall and in the spring of 1957

Farmers reported feeding an average of 8 4 pounds of feed to each cow last month, almost 10 per cent above the 7 7 pound rate for a year earlier

Production per cow averaged 514 pounds during November this year in comparison with 488 pounds a year ago and 540 pounds for October 1957

The average price paid for baled alfalfa hay stabilized at $42 a ton, the same as a month ago, but other hay averaged $32 a ton, 50 cents more than October In November 1956 baled alfalfa averaged $36 a ton, while other hay averaged $28.50

Production of milk for the first 11 months of 1957 was 6,021 million pounds or less than one per cent below the 6,057 million pounds a year ago.

Two Egg Dealers Receive Fines For Mis-labeling

HARRISBURG—Two additional fines for violation of the Pennsylvania Fresh Eggs law were announced Thursday by the State Department of Agriculture.

Secretary William L Henning said Goldstrohm Grocery of Clairton, and Serv-all, Inc , of McKeesport, both Allegheny County, were cited for offering eggs for sale that failed to meet grades specified on the carton, although the eggs were of edible quality.

Serv-all paid it fine, $50 and costs, while Goldstrohm was fined $25 and costs but has elected to appeal the charge

The maximum fine of $50 was administered against the McKeesport firm since the violation was the second in two years. For a 1956 violation a warning was given by the Department

The State Department of Agriculture is charged with enforcement of state egg regulations providing for the sale of quality merchandise Jan 16, 1958 new egg regulations will go into effect requiring that the grade, weight and identity of the packer appear on each carton or package of eggs sold in Pennsylvania

Tempting Appetizers Get Holiday Parties off to Flying Start

Let a tray full of tempting appetizers help brighten your holiday party. When folks gather around a platter of attractively prepared food, the fun begins as they enjoy the appetizers and the conversation.

Some appetizers can be made in advance of the party, leaving the hostess free to enjoy guests. Other appetizers can be partially prepared ahead of time, then stirred together or popped into the oven a few minutes before serving time.

Here are three recipes for appetizers which will appeal especially to the men at a party. Each one is made with meat. All of these zesty nibblers can be started in advance and two of them simply need reheating before serving.

Bacon-cheese puffs can be rolled early in the day, and refrigerated until just before serving time. Twenty-minutes of baking in a hot oven puffs the little snacks, which are a combination of the cured pork, thin-sliced bread and shredded sharp cheese.

BACON PUFFS

6 slices thin-sliced bread
12 slices bacon (about one-half pound)
½ pound sharp aged Cheddar cheese (about two cups)

Cut crusts from bread and cut each slice in half. For each puff, place two halves of bread, end to end, on a strip of bacon. Sprinkle with three tablespoons shredded cheese. Roll up and secure with cocktail picks. Place rolls on end on a rack in a shallow baking pan. Bake in a 400° oven for 20 minutes Or until lightly browned. Serve hot. Makes 12 puffs.

Individual barbecued spareribs is the second recipe in this trio of meaty appetizers. Ask your meat man to cut a side of spareribs lengthwise into two inch strips. Cook the ribs in a chili-flavored sauce and serve them as finger food. These tasty spareribs can be served as a dinner entree, also.

SERVE ONE OR ALL three of these meaty appetizers at a holiday party. Strips of bacon are rolled with shredded cheese and bread slices for the bacon puffs, and tangy barbecue sauce flavors the individual spareribs appetizers. Serve the garlic-flavored meat balls with cocktail picks.

Here is another easy main dish for the busy holiday season

Many a wise homemaker plans her meat for two meals when she chooses a roasting cut. Sometimes she serves the roast cold for its second appearance; sometimes she heat slices of the cooked meat in a tangy sauce Still another favorite is a casseroled version of the roast meat, such as this:

PORK AND VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

2 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ cup sliced celery
⅓ cup chopped onion
2 cups diced or ground cooked pork
1½ cups mixed cooked vegetables
White sauce or gravy
Salt, pepper
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
½ cup buttered bread or cracker crumbs

Melt fat and in it cook celery and onions 5 minutes. Add meat and vegetables and enough white sauce or gravy to moisten well. Add Worcestershire sauce and salt and pepper to taste. Pour into a lightly greased 1½ quart casserole, top with buttered crumbs, and bake at 350° for 30 minutes Makes 4 servings.

Let cold cuts, those handy year 'round meats, help you through a busy holiday schedule. The ready-to-use, flavor and nutrition packed meats are good quick-change artists. Here are two uses:

1. Cold cuts platter· On a platter, arrange attractively a variety of cold cuts such as salami, thuringer, and spiced ham. Garnish with ripe olives and cubes of cheese.

2. Luncheon salad Lightly rub a large salad bowl with garlic. In it place lettuce or a mixture of salad greens On one side lay strips of summer sausage, bologna, and pepperoni. Down the center arrange alternate slices of hardcooked egg and tomato Serve with solod dressings on the side.

Why not make some Quick Scalloped Potatoes with the aforementioned Savory Meat Loaf or the Pork and Vegetable Casserole Here is the recipe:

QUICK SCALLOPED POTATOES

2 cups thinly sliced raw potatoes
1½ cups milk
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Combine potatoes and milk and cook in a saucepan over low heat on top of the range for 15 to 20 minutes, taking care not to let the milk scorch.

Place a layer of potatoes in a greased baking dish, sprinkle with flour, salt, and pepper. Repeat until all the potatoes are used

Pour the milk left in the saucepan over the potatoes and dot with butter or margaine.

Cover and bake in a moderate oven for 350° for 10 minutes, or until potatoes are tender. Remove cover and bake 10 minutes longer. If the potatoes are not brown enough on top, place the uncovered dish under the broiler for 3 or 4 minutes Makes 4 servings.

Knotty Pine Adds Charm To Old Farmhouse Kitchen

A hundred and thirty years of use without too many improvements left much to be desired in the farm kitchen of Mr and Mrs. Frank Rohrer, R2 Quarryville. So four years ago Mrs Rohrer decided to do something about it

The original kitchen was a large room on the east side of the stone house. It measured about 12 feet wide and 20 feet long. On the west wall there was a large fire place, one of four in the house.

But the fireplace instead of adding anything to the room needed repairs that would have cost more than the value it would add It had been boarded shut by the former owner of the farm.

Ceilings of the room were in poor repair Electricity had been installed.

In converting her kitchen, Mrs. Rohrer wanted to preserve the feel of the old house and cut down on the size of the kitchen while adding cupboard and storage space.

To do this, she enlisted the aid of her brother who is a part-time cabinet maker They designed knotty pine cabinets that could be installed along the west side of the room covering the old fire place.

Also added at this time was a built-in sink, although the water system was not than installed.

The cabinets, both wall and floor type, cover about 10 feet. A knotty pine divider matching the cabinets was added to cut off the kitchen from the family entrance room

Also matching the knotty pine decor are valances over the windows

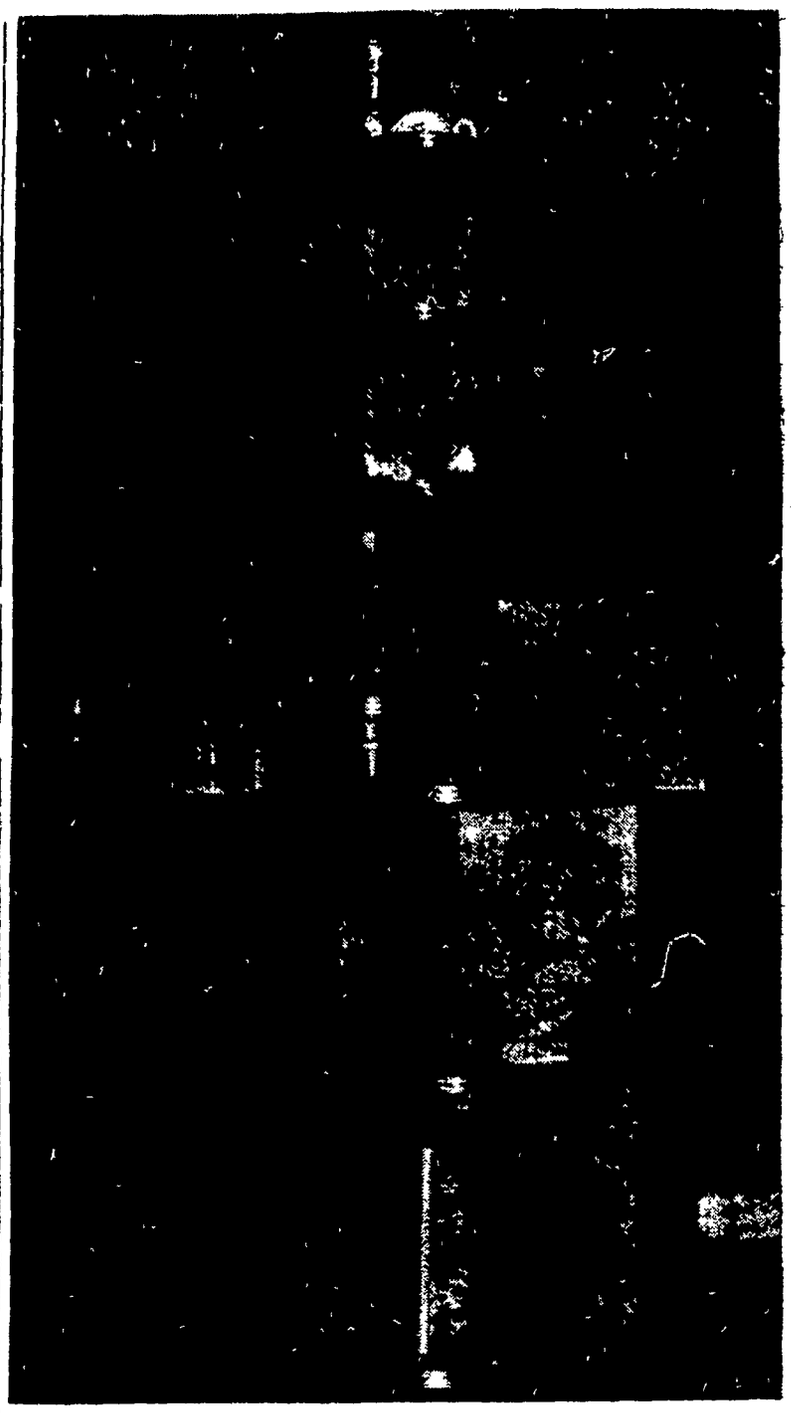
The cabinet tops are made of formica and the walls from the cabinet tops to the hung cabinets are covered in yellow enameled wall covering. This same wall covering, nearly five feet high, has also been installed around the rest of the room.

The ceilings were refinished and painted a light green. A rough log across the ceiling which could not be refinished was boxed in knotty pine and forms a part of the divider. From this are hung potted plants in copper containers.

Total cost for the conversion was about $350 Prices now would be slightly higher due to the increased cost of lumber and plywood

When Mrs Rohrer was asked what she would do different, she said that possibly the installation of more electric outlets in her major work areas might be a good idea.

Now, she says, she must take some of her appliances across the room to the electric range to operate them.



THE DIVIDER PROVIDES space for bric-a-brac and cook book storage as well as enclosed cabinet space. It becomes a focus of attention as well as dividing the family room from the kitchen. (LF Photo)

An outstanding characteristic of K-137 KimberCHIKS

As of January 1, 1956, K-137 Kimberchiks led in early egg size in all three official random sample tests in which they were entered—California, Missouri, and Utah. Since large eggs are often worth 100% more than small, and 35-50% more than medium, this characteristic of the K-137 can make a great difference in income during the pullet year.

The K-137 is also noted for its good egg quality, both shell and interior. The high percentage of firm albumen results in more AA quality eggs.

The K-137 has good livability... 93.4% to about 18 months in the three official tests in which they were entered last year.

We invite you to compare the performance of this outstanding stock under your own management.

Ready Exhibits For Farm Show Home Divisions

County homemakers who wish to exhibit their handiwork at the 1958 Pennsylvania Farm Show should be making plans now to have their materials ready, advises Mrs Ruth K Kreibich, county home economist.

There are many classes open in foods, child development, clothing and home improvement for 4-H clubs, schools and adults.

Arrangements have been made to transport exhibits by truck from Lancaster to Harrisburg. Exhibits may be left at the Farm Bureau Cooperative, Dillerville Road, Lancaster, or at Newcomer's Hardware Store in Mt. Joy. Home economics exhibits must be at these two places by noon on Friday, Jan. 10 Exhibitors who wish to take entries to the Farm Show must have them there by 6 p. m. on Jan. 11.

A general entry blank must accompany all exhibits. One entry blank should be made out for each exhibit and attached to the exhibit. They should be typed or printed

Clothing exhibits must be carefully marked with name, address and class number in the following manner: attach paper with information to inside hem of garment; or belts, attach inside with tape

Clothing that has been worn can be exhibited, but must be clean and repaired if necessary.

Only exhibits listed in the Farm Show catalog will be accepted No exhibitor may enter more than one article in a class. All food entries must have been canned in 1957 by the person exhibiting. Clothing and home improvement articles must have been made in 1957.

Standard quart jars are to be used for exhibiting fruits vegetables and meats. Corn and peas may be entered in either quart or pint jars.

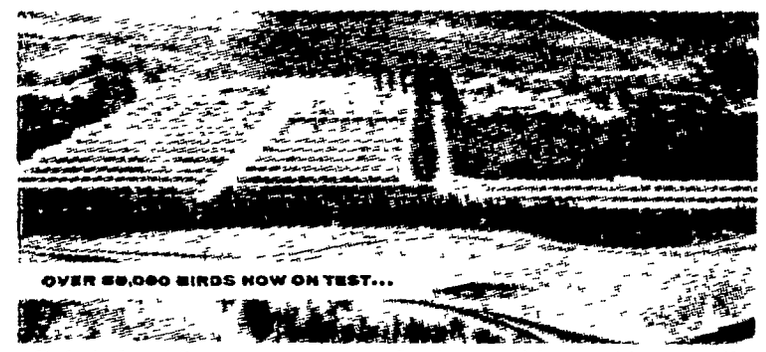
Pint jars are also to be used for dried products and jelly glasses with covers for jelly. Jellies not in jelly glasses with covers and fruits and vegetables not in standard clear glass jars will not be accepted.

Fancy packs are discouraged since they require extra time which definitely endangers the keeping qualities of the product. Also the judges will allow no extra credit. If the liquid in canned fruit is lower than two inches from the top of the jar, it will be disquadified.

No artificial coloring or preservative will be allowed.

Baked goods should be wrapped individually in cellophane to retain freshness until judging time

Members of 4-H Clubs are being notified by letter if their projects are of state show caliber. The same general regualtions apply to their entries.

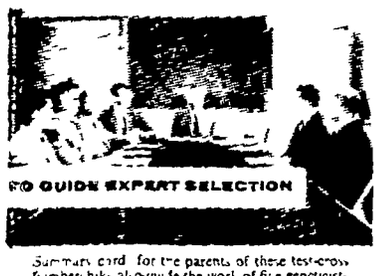


The Kimber Research Center is carrying on a program started over 25 years ago and aimed at producing the most profitable layer under commercial conditions

Records are currently being compiled on over 50 000 birds, of which over 20 000 are individually pedigreed males and females housed above at Niles, California

To assure effective selection for efficient performance under field conditions many of the Kimber Leghorns under test have been placed on commercial farms for exposure to different forms of management climate feeding, housing and disease

Data on the test birds is recorded on punched cards for most efficient use Records on each bird cover some 15 traits of importance to profitable performance such as rate of lay, livability, egg size height of firm albumen, number and size of blood spots



Summary card for the parents of these test-cross Kimberchiks also guide the work of five geneticists and two veterinarians developing the improved K-137 available today from nearly 70 authorized hatcheries in the United States and abroad
